Re: National Renewable Energy Lab

Sustainability Staff has been working with the National Renewable Energy Lab (NREL) to explore opportunities for improvements in both Energy Efficiency for low income/ rental properties and in Transportation sector. NREL is using Denton specific data to develop two documents to assist in decision making in these two areas. Initially we thought NREL would complete the documents in the July/ August timeframe but they have recently informed staff that they have been delayed due to increased review requirements at both NREL and DOE. We will be able to present the Transportation information at the October meeting and possibly the Energy Efficiency, the current target date for NREL release is September 30, so Energy Efficiency may be moved to November.
